EATING FOR HEALTH AND EFFICIENCY

In these days when there are so many diet fads, it is very refreshing to come across a book on the subject of eating which is entirely free from prejudice, and gives every form of diet its just due.

Such a book is the one having the above title, written by R. L. Alsaker, M. D. Meat eaters, vegetarians and fruitarians are all recognized, and proper menus under the different sys- tems given. The underlying princi- ples of the book are moderation in eating and proper food combinations, so as to form a balanced ration, as well as proper feeding at different stages of life, such as infancy, child- hood, and past middle life.

He tells thin people how to gain flesh, and fat people how to reduce, and the best of it all is that by fol- lowing his advice we not only im- prove our health but greatly reduce our living expenses.

This book is in the Branch Library for circulation, and it will repay any one to make a study of it, provided the principles it teaches are put into practice.

CHAS. H. CUSHING, Librarian.

As soon as this has been acted upon and returned the institution will be proceeded with. It is not thought that this can be done before the first part of September.

GENERAL PERSHING EXPLAINS DELAY IN COLLECTING LISTS OF CASUALTIES

The Secretary of War authorizes the following:

I have received a cablegram from Gen. Pershing with regard to reports of casualties. He points out that our troops are still widely separated, serving in many places, and that our wounded are taken to French and British hospitals as well as our own, causing great difficulty and complication in securing accurate information. In addition to this, the troops are separated from their records while in the area of conflict, and must depend upon very inadequate and temporary telegraph lines which are subject to frequent interruption and must, for the most part, be devoted entirely to the urgent business of the battle itself. Gen. Pershing assures me that he is making every effort to collect casualty lists, have them confirmed and verified, and that they will be transmitted promptly.

THE PEOPLE AND WAR TAXES

More than $3,500,000,000 has been collected in internal revenue taxes, including income and excess profits taxes, for the fiscal year. This exceeds by over $100,000,000 the estimates made a few months ago, and by over $200,000,000 the estimates made a year ago when the revenue measures were passed by Congress.

The success in collecting this large revenue is attributed by the Treasury Department to the patriotism and cooperation of the American people in promptly and cheerfully meeting the war burdens imposed upon them.

No trouble to buy, cheap, convenient, a real investment—WAR SAVINGS STAMPS.

Southern California headquarters of James Rolph, Jr., candidate for the Republican and Democratic nominations for governor, have been opened in Los Angeles, and the vigor displayed by those in charge is in keeping with the remarkable activity that has characterized the business and public life of this candidate for gubernatorial honors.

Of the many things that Mayor Rolph has done for San Francisco, perhaps that which stands out most prominently in these days of government control of public utilities, was the building and extending of the municipal railway system of that city. Corporations poured maledictions upon him and he was beset on many sides. But he persisted. Today the municipal railways are not only ably managed and the wages of the employees higher than ever before—but the system is a paying one.

JUDGE HOUSER A CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

Judge Frederick W. Houser, of the superior court, is a candidate for reelection. He is now serving his second term, and has made a splendid record as a jurist, having tried many cases of importance and magnitude. During the time that he was presiding judge, he demonstrated his busines ability and loyalty to his constituents by effecting a change of system whereby the county is saved approximately $42,000.00 a year.

Judge Houser is intensely interested in winning the war, and is devoting all his spare time to Red Cross work at Alhambra, where he is chairman of the chapter. He even permits women to do knitting in his courtroom while courtis in session.

CARR FOR STATE SENATOR FROM THIRTY-SIXTH DISTRICT

William J. Carr, the incumbent, is the candidate for the Republican nomination. W. F. Knight, of Pasadena, is out for both the Republican and Democratic nominations.

Senator Carr has been City Attorney for Pasadena, where he made a fine record. He has served the district for six years in the Senate, and is one of the most influential members of that body. His opponent is new and untried.

Senator Carr has made a fine dry record in the legislature. In the 1917 session he introduced and handled in the Senate the County Unit Bill of the Anti-Saloon League. Had this passed, it would be possible to close up Vernon and similar places. He is endorsed by the Dry Ratification Committee. His opponent has but recently publicly espoused the dry cause.

Senator Carr stands squarely against the assault, certain to be made, against the great constructive accomplishmens of the last eight years. His opponent has been opposed to the things done under Johnson's administration.

Everyone agrees that the state should economize in every way possible without crippling the vital governmental agencies. To effect economy in the administrative machinery of the state, Senator Carr will accomplish much more, than could his opponent, whose inexperience would render him ineffective, and whose well-known unfriendly attitude toward the vital things which must not be crippled, would tend to arouse suspicion as to his motives in anything he might attempt.

Senator Carr will represent solely the public interest. His opponent has disqualified himself from representing the public interest on any important line of legislation, by standing as the candidate of the Association for the Betterment of the Public Service, one of the astounding principles of which is opposition to any measure affecting the relations between capital and labor unless approved by the accredited representatives of each. It frequently happens that the public interest demands the adoption of laws which are opposed by capital or labor, or sometimes by both. It will be remembered that the Workmen's Compensation Law was opposed by capital and the Minimum Wage Law for Women by both capital and labor. Yet both of these laws were right and in the public interest.

Senator Carr is powerfully endorsed by such men as Dr. J. A. B. Scherer, Lt. Gov. A. J. Wallace, Judge J. P. Wood, C. W. Konier, manager of the Pasadena Municipal Light Department, and W. B. Mathews, formerly Los Angeles City Attorney, and now Counsel for the Bureau of Public Service.

The next legislature will be a war legislature and the most important in the state's history. Now is a poor time for experimens. Vote for Senator Carr at the Primaries.

BIG ANNUAL MASONIC PICNIC

At Eagle Rock Park, Saturday, August 24

The big annual event in the Masonic fraternity will take place on Saturday afternoon and evening, August 24th, at Eagle Rock Park, when all Masons in Los Angeles County are cordially invited to bring their families and be the guests of Jinnistan Grotto No. 76, M. O. V. P. E. R. Bring your own "eats" and sugar. Coffee, lemonade and everything else will be provided free. Elaborate preparation has been made for all sorts of entertainment and amusement. Starting promptly at 2:00 o'clock, there will be sports and contests for men, women and children, with handsome and useful first and second prizes for all winners. A big moving picture film will be made under the direction of Tom Wilson and Charlie Parrott of the principal events of the day, to be exhibited all over the country. There will be dancing in the pavilion in the evening until bedtime. W. T. Osterholt, Monarch of the Grotto, will have general supervision of the affair, and hopes to see a big crowd out.

Jinnistan Grotto is the local body of the Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm, the big playground of the Masonic fraternity, to which all Master Masons are eligible to membership. The Grotto was organized in Los Angeles two years ago and already has a membership of fifteen hundred. The big Fall Ceremonial will be staged on November 9, and under a special dispensation from the Supreme Council the neophytes in this class will be initiated into the land of glee, glory and good-fellowship at the minimum initiation fee of fifteen dollars. Jinnistan Grotto maintains office headquarters in charge of H. W. Reynolds, the Secretary, at 620 Trust & Savings Building, Los Angeles, where petitions are being filed, and any desired information dispensed from 9 to 5 daily.

The handsomely uniformed band of the Grotto, under the direction of Leader "Billy" Osterman, will give a concert during the afternoon of the picnic.

GROCERS TO FROLIC AT VENICE

Venice is the ideal spot for large picnics. It has the room, it has the attractions and it is one place where a day may be most profitably spent. So decided the board of directors of the Southern California Retail Grocers' Association in awarding the fifth annual picnic to Venice. This picnic is without doubt the largest that leaves Los Angeles every summer, for the association embraces 1400 stores and caters to more than a million customers. Thursday, August 22, was the day set for the picnic, and plans are nearly completed for the big event.

The grocers extend an invitation not only to their employees but to the customers also. The wearer of a silk badge on that day certainly possesses some excellent advantages. This badge entitles the holder to a special rate on the Pacific Electric, admittance to the Race Thru the Clouds grounds at Venice where a free barbecue, free coffee, free food samples, entry into the athletic events for valuable prizes, half rate on all the amusement concesions, free dancing at the Venice pavilion from 2 to 5 p. m., a 25-cent rate on the Venice Plunge, 15 cents to the children, in fact, entitles you to everything in the pleasure line.

It is planned by the committee, headed by Secretary Olsen, and the secretary of the picnic committee, A. H. Redmond to take advantage of the gathering in bringing out the big factor that food has in winning the war. Thomas P. White of los Angeles and several other speakers will address the picnickers in the Race in the Clouds grounds along patriotic lines.

This day at Venice, on Thursday, great interest to the general trade of the grocery establishments, for the plans call for a complete day of entertainment from early morning until late into the evening, and it is an opportunity to spend a day alongside of Mother Ocean under the most pleasing of circumstances.

When you buy War Savings Stamps you do not give your money, you loan it at 4 per cent compounded quarterly. You help your Government, but you help yourself even more.

YOUTHS OF 21 TO REGISTER AUGUST 24

Registration Saturday, August 24, of all youths who have reached the age of twenty-one since the second registration, June 5, last, was ordered Wednesday by Provost Marshal General Crowder under a proclamation by the President. The purpose is to add quickly to the almost exhausted Class 1 to meet army selection calls in September.

About 150,000 young men will register. Most of them will qualify for class 1, and, therefore, will join the army probably within a month after their names are recorded.

President Wilson's proclamation excepts the Territories of Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico from the registration temporarily, but a later day will be fixed for these. Only men in the armed service are exempted from registration.

It was announced that the suggested date, September 5, would not be the day for the registration of men from 18 to forty-five, even if Congress passes the bill, because several of the largest states in the Union hold primary elections on that date.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bittle are visiting Mrs. Bittle's mother, Mrs. L. Cramer, of Acacia avenue. Mr. Bittle expects to return to Taft soon, but his wife will stay until the hot weather is over.

Our good friend, John F. Peters, of Columbus avenue, left some delicious peaches at our office this week, as samples of what can be raised on Tropico soil.

At the West Glendale Methodist Church next Sunday evening, at 8:00 o'clock, a Patriotic Service will be held. A patriotic song program is being prepared. A new star will be added to the Service Flag. The pastor will give a short address on "Why Germany Cannot Win the War."

The all-day meeting of the N. P. Banks Post and Corps for the month of August will be held next Friday, the 23rd. Although several officers and members of both Post and Corps are attending the National G. A. R. Encampment at Portland, an unusually good time is anticipated, as this will be the first meeting since the Huntington Beach Encampment, and many members are home from vacations. Mrs. Tina Hammond is chairman of the dinner committee.

Friends of Father O'Neill will observe with pleasure that he has disposed of his Ford "and is now riding in a real automobile," as he expresses it. His latest car is a Studebaker 1918 roadster. Another item in which his friends will be interested is the fact that he is this week entertaining for a few days his brother, Charles O'Neill and his bride. Charles lived for about eight years in this city with Father O'Neill at the Parish House, and has many friends here. He is chief teller in the Hibernian bank of Los Angeles, and recently married a Hollywood girl. He is spending a part of his vacation in Glendale, and father O'Neill is delighted to have the young people with him.

The Confessions of a German Deserter

Written by a Prussian Officer Who Participated in the Ravaging and Pillaging of Belgium

Copyright by Detroit Free Press

ve hurried away, for the French artillery began once more to send shells with much accuracy over the entire countryside. Wounded men from other detachments whom we passed on the road told us that the French had already crossed the Marne in several different places. Everyone among us voiced the same opinion. We had already sustained great losses on Belgian soil and each day brought new sacrifices. Our lines became thinner and thinner. Many companies were entirely destroyed and all units suffered heavily. These companies whose forces had been reduced to a minimum and with the survivors half starved were opposed by an army well equipped with supplies and arms. The enemy constantly brought up fresh troops while our forces became fewer from hour to hour. We realized that it was impossible to make a stand here. We were constantly learning from soldiers of other contingents that their losses in men and materials were enormous.

I thought of the God of the Germans. Had he forsaken them?

I thought it so loud that the others could hear.

"Yes," said another, "whom the Lord wishes to punish is first stricken with blindness. Probably he thought of Belgium, Donchery, Sommepy and Suippes, and still many other places and let us run into this perdition like flying fiends."

We reached Vitry. Here the misery seemed to be still greater than ever before, for in the entire town there was not a single house that was not overcrowded with wounded. In the midst of all this misery robbery flourished. All residences had been emptied of their furnishings and everything was thrown into the streets to make room for the wounded.

The sanitary squads went over the town and took everything of any value. The munition and railroad columns followed the same practice. They had plenty of room for plunder. This was amply proven by numerous seizures afterward of parcels put in the mail, which contained gold rings, watches, precious stones, etc. The business of the marauders flourished here in Vitry. The soldiers in the supply columns encountered very little actual danger; they had an easy time as compared with soldiers fighting at the front.

We soon reached the cathedral and reported to Lieutenant Elm. He also had defended his fatherland at a safe distance and here in the city, freshly shaved and in immaculate attire he looked very presentable.

The contrast was vivid as he stood before us who were torn, dirty and covered with blood, with unkempt hair, with beards grown and caked with mud and dirt.

We were obliged to wait so we sat down and looked around us. The church was full of wounded; many died under the hands of the doctors. They were carried out to make room for others. The dead were carried to one side, where whole rows of corpses lay. We counted more than sixty.

On our way to Vitry we had begged some bread, but we were still hungry and our field kitchens were nowhere in sight. The crews of our field kitchens as well as our forage officers and noncommissioned officers prefer to defend their fatherland many kilometers behind the battle fronts. They did not care about us as long as they were not obliged to go within range of the artillery fire. Comradeship has its limitations with them.

Other field kitchens were near by. They had prepared more food than their companies needed. Many for whom they had cooked will never eat again. We were invited to come and get whatever we wanted.

We had scarcely finished eating when we had to march on. Presently we were joined by more members of our company. Our captain appeared. One of our officers reported to him the number missing. He stepped in front of the company and said cheerfully, "Good morning, men," although it was seven o'clock in the evening. A growl was the only response. We were then ordered to go to the wagons standing at the north side of the town, where each man was to supply himself with cartridges and three hand grenades. We gathered at the wagons at 9:30 o'clock and each man took 500 cartridges, his three grenades and matches to light them. On the way to the wagons we saw everywhere formations being hastily organized from stray soldiers and we received the impression of some great activity in preparation.

The rain had begun to fall in torrents. As we took our places we saw the streets filled with troops wearing special uniforms to protect them against the weather. These uniforms consisted of a suit of weatherproof clothing, a cap, such baggage as must be taken on a march, a tent cloth, tent sticks, dishes and, with the pioneers trench tools. Thus equipped, we stood in the rain and waited, ignorant of what lay before us.

We were ordered to take the breech locks out of the guns and put them in our bread bags. The guns now were no good for shooting. We now began to understand what lay before us. A night attack was planned with bayonets and hand grenades, and the measures which had been taken were taken so that we would not shoot at one another in the darkness.

We stood and waited until eleven o'clock, when the order suddenly came to go into quarters. We did not know what to make of this after all the preparations. We could tell from the drum fire and the red glare in the sky that the battle had not lessened in violence. The sky glowed, illumined by the burning villages and farms.

On the way to our quarters we heard the officers saying among themselves that a final trial had been intended to defeat the French. This had been the reason behind the preparations for the night attack which had now been called off.

Headquarters apparently had decided otherwise. Perhaps it was known there that nothing could be accomplished by attacking and the order was given to begin the retreat which was put into effect the next morning at six o'clock. We did not realize then that this was to be our last night in Vitry.

We were sheltered in a shed for the night. As we were very tired, we soon were fast asleep. We were aroused at four o'clock in the morning, everyone was given a loaf of bread and ordered to fill his canteen with water, after which the march began. Although we were ignorant of our destination, the inhabitants of Vitry seemed to understand where we were going and they stood on the streets throwing us significant glances.

Everywhere the feverish movement was on. We stopped in front of the town hall. Here the captain told us that because of difficulty in the terrain our troops had to vacate their positions and retire to nearby heights and occupy new defenses. With that he turned around and pointed to a ridge on the horizon.

"There we shall make a stand and wait for the enemy," he said. "No re-enforcements will arrive today and in a few days we may send picture postal cards to your homes from Paris."

CHAPTER IX.

I must confess that most of us believed in this at the time, that we would soon be in Paris. Other bodies of troops arrived from all sides. We had marched several hours when news came to us that Vitry had been retaken by the French and that they had seized a tremendous amount of military stores, captured the hospitals, together with their medical units and patients, and that the sanitary companies also had been made prisoners. At about two o'clock in the afternoon we arrived at the heights which had been pointed out to us early in the march by our captain.

We now began to understand that something had gone wrong. Streets were filled with troops from all branches of service, trying to use the road along which we were marching. Being outnumbered, we were crowded backward. Empty munition columns raced by us in no order whatever. They were followed by canteen and other supply wagons. The greatest confusion reigned everywhere. Every minute added to the congestion until finally there was a dead halt. The drivers of some wagons left the road and tried to pass around the congested portions by traversing the fields, which had been soaked by heavy rains. Several wagons turned over and others became imbedded in the mud. The horses were unhitched from these and the wagons left behind. The wagoners mounted these horses and drove on forgetting everything in one wild panic-stricken race for safety.

OFFICIAL FOOD NEWS

Issued by
U. S. Food Administration for California

That California has "gone over the top" in food conservation and production, and in all other war activities, was the gist of an informal statement issued by Federal Food Commissioner Ralph P. Merritt, the first since his return from a tour of the state, during which he had ample opportunity to find out "what the other fellow is doing."

"Magnificent" was the word the food chief used to describe the measure of co-operation the people of the state are giving in food conservation. In remote farm houses, among the forest rangers and sheep herders in the mountain fastnesses, and in the summer resorts of high and low degree, Merritt said he found practically 100 per cent observance of the food rules and restrictions.

Summing up he said:

"During the first year of food administration, of the people and for the people, the nation, by saving and thoughtful use of resources has gained these ends:

"For our sailors at sea and our soldiers overseas, ample provision.

"For the Allies, maintaining the common cause, salvation from famine.

"For the armies, renewed courage to keep a steel wall between us and destruction.

"For the community of free peopl a stronger unity of purpose.

"For the future, a more resolute w to go on through sacrifice to victory

Merritt made a strong plea for co servation of sugar in the homes du ing the present crisis as a patriot duty, and the continuance of othe conservation measures.

Grocery stores are advised that the should not refuse to honor canni sugar permits from the woman dire tor of food conservation if they ha sufficient sugar on hand to fill the Complaints have been receiv throughout the state that many gr cers have adopted this practice whi is wrong. A certain allotment of s gar was made to each grocer to su ply the canning demand and he is e pected to take care of his customer as long as he has sugar on hand f canning purposes. When his own su ply runs short he may apply to t local food administrator for an ad tional allotment for canning.

The present household sugar ratio —with little chance of increase— two pounds a month in America, tw pounds in England, one and one-ha pounds in France, and one pound i Italy.

MAKING THE OLD DESSERT INT A PATRIOTIC ONE

A dessert cannot be patriotic an have sugar as one of its constituent and yet a dessert cannot be a des sert unless it is sweet and delicious Our problem is therefore to change th old recipe which contains sugar, int a new one that is equally as sweet.

Maple sugar, maple syrup, corn syrup, honey or molasses may b used for the sweetening of custards junkets, gelatine desserts, clear jel lies, sponges, frozen dishes, ice creams mousse steamed, cereal or tapioca puddings or fresh fruits. The choice of the sweetening is a matter of taste

In place of one cup of sugar called for in the old recipe use one cup of honey or from 1 2-3 to 2 cups of corn syrup. Approximately the same sweetness is obtained.

Since every cup of syrup or honey furnishes ¼ of a cup of liquid for every cup of syrup or honey that is substituted for sugar reduce the original amount of the liquid in the recipe ¼ cup.

Every producing farm is a dynamo of victory.

We are heirs of great happenings. Shall we surrender our inheritance?

Many of the larger hotels of the country are using no cane sugar in pastries and desserts.

"PERSHING'S CRUSADERS" AT PALACE GRAND

Today for the first time Glendale has the privilege of seeing the first great official United States war picture, "Pershing's Crusaders." There is absolutely no fake about this picture, it has been taken for the purpose of giving us a true idea of what our boys are doing in France, and is being advertised by the United States Government in the leading magazines throughout the nation. It will make you breathe easier to see how well the soldiers are being cared for, and it is a picture that every citizen should see. Matinee at 2:30. Evening shows at 6:45 and 8:45. Tickets now on sale.

Of scarcely less interest will be the play for Sunday, the 18th, in which Dorothy Dalton appears in "The Kaiser's Shadow." A French girl, sent by her country to do the most dangerous thing in the world, sets about her task. It will thrill you. There will also be a two-reel Mack Sennett comedy, full of hair-raising stunts, "She Loved Him Plenty." Matinee at 2:30. Evening shows at 6:45 and 8:45.

For Monday, August 19th, the program will include the big Broadway success, "The Guilty Man." This is a wonderful story, whose stage version held New York theatre goers enthralled for months. On the screen it is the greatest sensation of the moment. Bruce's wonder outdoor picture, "Hounds of the Hills," completes the program. There will be the usual matinee at 2:30 and two evening shows, 7:00 and 8:45.

By popular request, a return showing of the big masterpiece, "Joan the Woman," will be given on next Tuesday. It is the story of Joan of Arc, the girl patriot who fought with men, was loved by men and killed by men, and who through it all retained the heart of a woman. It is played by such stars as Geraldine Farrar, Wallace Reid and Hobart Bosworth, with other worth-while players. It is offered at regular admission prices. Children's matinee at 2:30

One of the best melodramas ever presented will be shown on Wednesday, with Herbert Rawlinson in "Smashing Through." "All hell can't stop me from smashing through. I'll show 'em," he said, and he did. Matinee at 2:30. Evening shows at 7:00 and 8:45.

EPIGRHYMES:

I guess that I'm a dreamer, for 'most everything I see or hear brings out a discord or a solemn symphony. BUT NE'ER did dreams accomplish much unless they bore a deed;
we'd never know the perfume of THE ROSE, WITHOUT the seed.
This, then, is my apology—a dreamer's vice, self-known—for my weird vision of THE war against one foe alone:
That single enemy stands clad in armor of the past; his black flag of oppression hangs blood-spotted from the mast.
We lay away the rose of Peace, unmindful of the pain caused by the flower's THORN of war—
'till it shall bloom again.
What Herrick wrote is true, of course, but this last war will show that on this Land of Ours we'll make e'en thornless roses grow! So, may we all be parents of some dream-deed, and release our brains, our money, sword and pen against that Foe of Peace.

Robert Russell.

END YOUR FIELD GLASSES, SPY-GLASSES OR TELESCOPES TO WASHINGTON TO BE 'EYES' FOR THE FLEET

The Navy needs these "eyes" to de-ive the submarine of its sting and it as requested the California State ouncil of Defense to help it obtain hem. Commissioning hundreds f new ships for naval service has lasses far in excess of the present merican output. The only way to nsure an adequate supply while the anufacturers of lenses are speeding p production is by appealing to the patriotism of private owners.

The Government pays a nominal fee of $1,00 for each glass accepted and the donor is further rewarded by knowing that his patriotic contribution may be the means of saving thousands of troops in transport and also of saving much-needed shipping from destruction.

Old, scuffed telescopes or field glasses may possess first class lenses, so don't be chary about forwarding them regardless of appearance.

Ship direct by mail or express to Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Naval Observatory, Washington, D. C. Tie a tag with your name and address to each instrument.

SEVEN POUNDS LIMIT TO PACKAGES FOR SOLDIERS

The attention of persons mailing packages to soldiers is called by Postmaster Harrington Brown to a ruling of the Postoffice Deparment limiting the weight of parcels for troops overseas to seven pounds. Senders are also warned against packing articles in wooden boxes.

Senders are reqested to keep in mind the fact that the soldier in the camp in America to whom a package is addressed may be sent overseas before the parcel reaches him. In that event the package must stand a long sea trip, and should be packed very carefully even when directed only to the local camp.

The department advises strong corrugated cardboard well wrapped in paper or sacking or cloth of some kind.
